

Emigration

We offer all our buyers full assistance with not only buying their property and the associated paperwork, but also changing over utility bills, arranging insurance, opening a bank account, finding an accountant, caretaker, maintenance, builders (if required), where to buy a car, buying furniture and household goods, travel to and within Sweden and many more aspects of owning a holiday home in Sweden.

More and more people are considering emigration to Sweden and house hunting is just a part, albeit an important part, of the overall process. We can extend the help we offer to holiday home buyers with additional help to those considering moving to Sweden.

We have helped several couples to make a permanent move to their holiday home in Sweden. The experience we have gained and the contacts we have made put us in an excellent position to help our clients make their way in their new country.

The help we have given existing clients does not just extend to helping with the practical aspects of moving, but also the social aspects of integrating into their community. Introductions to the local neighbours, community groups, projects and associations help those that wish to make new friends and contacts very quickly and feel a part of their local environment.
